Protecting the Farmer.

What has caused the State of Iowa to decrease 7,082 in population since 1900? Secretary Wilson has told us that the tariff is making the farmers prosperous, and yet thousands have moved away from this prosperity to seek other and more inviting fields. Is it possible that the bleak prairies of Northwestern Canada, where corn will not ripen, offer better prospects for successful farming than the rich lands of Iowa?

The fact is, Secretary Wilson is mistaken and the farmers know it, else why their intense demand for real tariff revision. The only Iowa farmers that the tariff helps are those who raise sheep, for they benefit by the tariff of 12 cents per pound on wool. But there were in 1909 only 747,000 sheep in Iowa and the numbers decreasing; for according to the same authority there were 800,000 sheep of shearing age in 1908, which shows a reduction of 53,000 in one year.

In these same official statistics the price of sheep on the farm appears to be declining; for in 1908 the average price in the United States is quoted at $3.88 per head, while in 1909 the price had declined to $3.43. This does not indicate that the farmers are getting their share of the prosperity which the Republicans assure us is due to the protective tariff. Even their sheep and wool on which they are protected do not seem to be adding to their prosperity; and on nothing else than wool is the Iowa farmer really protected by the tariff.

The price of wool has declined since the passage of the new tariff law, although the very high protection on wool and woolsens was not changed. At St. Louis the highest price reached in January 1908 for best tub washed was 33 cents a pound; while during December of the same year the price fell to 28 cents per pound. There are no later government statistics published, but the Daily Herald of Quincy, Illinois, November 4, 1910, in its market report of the price of hides and wool says: "Wool—Although prices are not advancing just yet the market is toning up. There is a better demand and the general feeling is better."

"Bright wool—21 to 23c cents per pound.

"Clothing wool—18 to 20 cents per pound.

"Western and inferior grades—16 to 19 cents per pound."

While the Iowa farmer has been having good crops and getting good prices for them during the past few years, the cost of living has advanced over 60 per cent with him as with every dweller in the cities, and those who have rented farms have had their rent raised as the price of land increased. These Iowa farmers who have emigrated—probably mostly tenants—have evidently not been very prosperous, or they would not leave their home and their neighbors and their friends to go to new countries and begin all over again with all the hardships of frontier life. Now under that in Iowa and in all the Western States where similar conditions prevail there has been a general demand for tariff revision downward; for it is very evident that protection does not protect the farmer, but plunders him.

Bachelors to Be Taxed.

The question of whether bachelors should be taxed is again agitating some parts of the country. This time it has broken out in Memphis and the Commercial-Appeal takes the affirmative on the proposition on the ground that all luxuries should be taxed as the other luxuries of life, in face of the fact, however, that Dr. Johnson says that the married man has many cares, the bachelor no pleasures. Proceeding on the proposition that all men ought to marry and suffer the penalty therefor, the writer joins in the demand to tax those who are so selfish as not to want a woman participate in their misery. A bachelor is one of the most useless spokes in the wheel of civilization. He foregoes all of the troubles of matrimony and never knows the horror of waking the floor with his off spring or of being kept awake all night by its squalls. Tax 'em and tax 'em till they are forced to marry. Their money could not go to a better purpose than for a fund to support the old maids that their selfishness has made to exist.

When Tempted to Play the Cow- ard.

We all have days of discouragement and moments when we would be glad to run away from our troubles and responsibilities, says Orison Swett, Marden in "Success Magazine." In these times of depression and discouragement, when we feel that we amount to but little and doubt whether, after all, life is worth while, there is always danger of playing the coward; of doing something that we shall be ashamed of later. It is better never to take an important step or make a radical change when discouraged.

When everything seems dark ahead and you cannot see another step, then say to yourself: "I guess it is up to me now to play the part of a man," grit your teeth and push on, knowing that the gloomy condition will pass; that no matter how black or threatening the clouds, there is a sun behind them which will ultimately burst through. You will be surprised to find what power and courage are developed by this holding on as best you can.

After becoming better acquainted with the mighty reserve which is in you, you will learn that you can depend upon it; that it will come to your rescue in your hour of need.

I have known young men to play the coward to such an extent to cancel engagements to speak on important occasions, just because they were filled with terror at the very thought of appearing before an audience. Their timidity, their fear of not acquitting themselves properly, made such cowards of them that they invented all sorts of excuses for shirking the responsibility.

Many people are frightened out of taking responsibilities which they know perfectly well they would be capable of fulfilling, and which would be of untold benefit to them if carried out. They haven't the courage to measure up to their opportunities.

Now, when tempted to play the coward, get by yourself and give yourself a good talking. Think how cowardly it would be to run away from your responsibility or opportunity. Just say to yourself that you are made of better stuff; that you are going to do the thing that you agreed to do, no matter how hard or disagreeable it may be.

Failure Better Than Shirking.

Failure to do a difficult task is more to be commended than shirking the attempt.

First Telescope.

Very few people are aware that the first practical telescope—the one which Galileo used in discovering the satellites of Jupiter in January, 1610, is still in existence and preserved at the Museum of Physics and Natural History in Florence. It is about 300 years ago since the instrument was first turned toward the heavens. Unlike the present astronomical type, it had a concave instead of a convex eyepiece, just like the opera glasses now in use. When Galileo first exhibited his new telescope to the duke and an enthusiastic assembly, he was overwhelmed with honors, because it was thought that the instrument would give the soldiers and sailors of the republic a great advantage over their enemies.—Strand Magazine.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr.
R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help.
That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.
